

MEMORIAL WALL

FOR THOSE WHO PERISHED in the Holocaust there is no final resting place. On this wall, individuals are lovingly remembered, their names engraved in capital letters, followed by the names of their surviving relatives in Oregon and Southwest Washington.

Those who honor their family members at this memorial are deeply woven into the fabric of our community, some of them with pioneer roots in the Northwest that date from the middle of the nineteenth century, others whose arrival here was possible only after the Holocaust, and who came bearing witness to the terrible events that they had survived. Let us not forget, for every victim whose name is known, there are many more whose names remain lost forever to family and loved ones; their spirit, too, is commemorated here.

As we gaze upon this wall, let us remind ourselves of man's enormous cruelty to man, meted out with such calculated technical precision during the Holocaust, for the memory of it casts its shadow upon every one of us as members of the human race.
